2007 SEASON PREVIEW

Drury University's soccer Panthers got off to one of the strongest starts in school history in 2006, reeling off an 8-0-3 beginning and climbing into the NCAA-II Top 25 for the first time in the program's history (and reaching as high as No. 6 nationally in the poll) before settling for a 10-5-5 finish.

With most of that group – including eight starters - returning, coach Alf Bilbao's squad is expecting to take another leap forward. Heading the list of returnees for a team that finished 5-5-3 in the tough Great Lakes Valley Conference are senior Cody Reinberg, who switched from forward to defender last season and still managed two goals and an assist; senior defender Nick Washam, who helped anchor a strong back line last season; senior keepers Michael Lassen and Cesar Cerejio, who split time in goal last season before Lassen took over most of the load late in the campaign; junior midfielder Tyson Bramley, who scored four goals, including three game-winners; and sophomore forward Neal Covington, the top returning scorer with 12 points (four goals, four assists). Both Reinberg and Covington were rewarded with All-GLVC honorable mention recognition for their efforts.

Bilbao, entering his third season as head coach at DU after a long and successful run at Truman State, expects all nine of the Panthers' incoming freshmen to compete for playing time immediately, a group that includes four off strong Springfield prep squads – midfielder Danny Collins and keeper Stephen Conner from Glendale High School and defender Alex Palmer and forward Adam Peterson from Kickapoo High School.
