“International students that graduate from Drury easily differentiate themselves from other business school graduates—our students work on projects that provide real world experience and leave Drury with the confidence to become leaders in the workplace and immediately add value to a firm.”

– Kelley Still, Ph.D., CPA
Associate Professor of Accounting
Breech School of Business

“Drury architecture students get a high-quality professional education integrated into a small liberal arts university. While the national average to complete an M.Arch. is six years, most Drury students complete it in five, with opportunities for dual majors and minors in fields like business and fine arts.”

– Robert Weddle, Ph.D., AIA, LEED AP
Dean of the Hammons School of Architecture

– Karen Spence, Ph.D., AIA, LEED AP
Associate Professor of Architecture
